

LOWERY DENIES MURDER CHARGE; ARRANGES $2,000 BOND, IS FREED

Affidavit Sworn by McCrady Before Mayor Charges Second Degree

CRABLES STILL HELD

Tom Hill's Funeral Wednesday at 3 p. m.

William Lowery, 50, was released from the county jail, Monday evening, after furnishing $2,000 bond in Mayor B. T. Hedges' court. Lowery pleaded not guilty to murder in the second degree, Monday afternoon, and was bound to the grand jury.

He is charged with the death of Thomas H. Hill, 65, who died of a shotgun wound in his chest Sunday afternoon after a family fight with members of the Lowery family. Mr. Hill and Lloyd and Miranda Crable are the principals. The latter two are held in the county jail as material witnesses.

The Lowerys charge Mrs. Crable, Hill's daughter, who was released from the Columbus workhouse late last week, caused the quarrel which ended fatally.

SWORN BY MCCRADY
The affidavit charging Lowery with murder in the second degree was filed by Officer William McCrady. It said "Lowery did unlawfully, purposely and maliciously kill Thomas Hill."

Lowery, when questioned by Prosecutor Ray W. Davis, pleaded self defense claiming if he hadn't shot Hill the man would have shot him. A .22 caliber H. & R. pistol was taken from the dead man's hand after the fracas in the yard of Hill's southeast residence.

Prosecutor Davis said after the charge was filed, Monday, "It is necessary that a charge be filed against Mr. Lowery to hold him. It will be up to the grand jury to hear testimony of all witnesses and determine on what charge he shall be tried."

Lowery's bond was signed by Alonzo Starkey, Logan-st., and Mrs. Rosa Thomas, Lowery's sister.

FUNERAL WEDNESDAY

In the meantime funeral arrangements have been completed for Mr. Hill. Rev. E. S. Toensmeier, of the First Presbyterian church, will officiate at the Albaugh funeral home Wednesday at 3 p. m. with interment to follow in Forest cemetery.

COUNTY NOT HURT BY HEALTH SLASH

Dr. Beale Says State Subsidy Cut Expected; Expenses Here Are Low.

Action of the state senate finance committee in cutting $300,000 from the state board of health budget will not affect the continued operation of the Pickaway-co. board of health, Dr. C. C. Beale, county health officer, said Tuesday.

"We have been anticipating this cut for sometime and have been eliminating unnecessary expenses as much as possible," Dr. Beale said. "This is a state subsidy and has been cut little by little for several years. We do not believe that we will be affected by the cut, inasmuch as we have been operating at very low expense," he concluded.

It was feared that the $300,000 slice from the budget would impair the operation of a number of local health boards. State Director of Health H. G. Southard strenuously objected to the cut, warning of the abandonment of a number of health districts which have played a great part in preserving "the good health" of the state.

Forest Army Boys Write From California 'Wilds'

From a wild section of California came two communications from Pickaway-co members of the forest army, Tuesday. Mrs. William Caudill received a letter from her son and a card was received by friends of Kenneth Henn.

The county youths are located at California Hot Springs, near Proctorville, between two mountains the names of neither being given in the communications.

The 'army' passed through Kentucky, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and Nevada before entering California. Four days and nights were spent on the train.

Cutting tent poles has been the most difficult task the outfit has had. The camp is located about 3,000 feet above sea-level.

The Caudill boy's letter says a sergeant in the outfit killed a small rattlesnake on the sidewalk in the village.

Friends, and relatives who wish to write to the youths should address their mail, California Hot Springs, California, C. C. C. Company 587.

HAMM TO CO-OPERATE

Notorious Abductor Identified By His Victim.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 20.—William Hamm Jr., millionaire brewer, will personally lead the search for the hide-out in the Minnesota lake regions where he was held captive for nearly four days by kidnapers.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 20.—Authorities had the active cooperation today of William Hamm Jr., 39, millionaire brewer, as search was spread throughout the northwest for his kidnapers.

The hunt was speeded up by a reward of $30,000 offered by St. Paul business men for apprehension of the five or six abductors who released Hamm early yesterday after payment of a ransom which had been scaled down from an original figure of $100,000. Somewhat refreshed after his four day ordeal, Hamm was back at his office at the Theodore Hamm Brewing company, of which he is president.

"I will give any information I have," Hamm told Prosecutor M. F. Kinkead, in charge of the search.

IDENTIFIES SANKEY

The wealthy brewer said he was not permitted to see all of his kidnapers, but he was able to identify pictures of Verne Sankey as one who resembled a leader of the gang. Sankey is under indictment for the kidnaping of young Haskell Bohn here and the recent abduction of Charles Boettcher II in Denver.

A taxicab driver likewise identified pictures of Sankey as the man who engaged him to deliver the first ransom note to an associate of Hamm.

Search for the house where the millionaire was held captive four days spread through northern Minnesota. Although hooded and blindfolded, Hamm said he thought it was a farmhouse located in the northern part of the state.

Hamm, the scion of one of St. Paul's wealthiest families, was released at Wyoming, 45 miles from here, early yesterday and authorities returned him to the family residence here.

The clothing of Bodenhamer was burned from his body.

OHIO TO GET WORKS FUNDS

Gen. Henderson Feels Certain State To Be Granted Large Slice of Cash.

COLUMBUS, June 20.—Ohio's chances of obtaining a $400,000,000 slice of the $3,000,000,000 federal public works fund are "extremely favorable," Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson, chairman of the state relief commission, declared today on his return from Washington where he conferred with government officials.

Col. Donald H. Sawyer, President Roosevelt's temporary administrator of public works, told him that Ohio is the first state that has submitted a complete program, and is therefore "first in line" for consideration, Henderson said.

"Although no definite promises have been made," Henderson stated, "it would appear that Ohio will be well taken care of when distribution of the public works money is started."

Sawyer advised Henderson and Ohio associates to "comb" the $400,000,000 program of all projects except those which the state relief commission is willing to recommend. This will be done at once, Henderson said.

Fred Rowe, chairman of the Ohio work relief committee, who was instrumental in drafting the Ohio program, will return to Ohio tomorrow after consultations with federal authorities. The "comb-ing" task will be placed in his hands.

BILLION, 8 MILLION NOW IN TREASURY

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Preparing for the gigantic drive against depression the treasury today had amassed a cash balance of $1,008,099,000.

This balance, reminder of war time will be employed in the public works, agriculture and relief activities now getting under way.

This sum was accumulated in the sale of more than a billion dollars worth of securities, and from usual income sources such as taxes and customs receipts.

So far in June over $104,281,000 in income taxes and $71,483,000 in miscellaneous internal revenue have been collected. Miscellaneous receipts which are expected to run more than $100,000,000 this month are nearly three times as great as last year.

There were 80 miles in the course between Nantucket and Provincetown. Mr. Roosevelt expected to make the harbor there by nightfall, given favorable weather.

HEALTH BOARD AND COLUMBUS FACE CONTEST

Southard Warns City Action Must Be Taken in Disposal Plant Issue

LETTER IS DEFIED

Matter May Go to State's Attorney-General

COLUMBUS, June 20.—Refusing to swerve from his original plan on disposition of the city's sewage disposal problem, the Columbus council today had openly defied a warning from Dr. H. G. Southard, director of the state health department.

In an unexpected letter to council, read shortly before its meeting last night, Dr. Southard warned that he would turn the matter over to Attorney-General John W. Bricker for prosecution because of needless delay.

WARNING UNHEEDED

Headless of the warning, council voted immediately afterward to adhere to its plan of permitting a private contractor to build and operate the plant unless bids received on the job cannot be accepted because of excessive cost.

Dr. Southard urged the city to adopt Mayor Henry Worley's plan of assessing a sewer rental tax approximating $2.63 for every home in the city, and that the city construct its own plant at a cost of approximately $3,300,000.

COLUMBUS, June 20.—The Columbus Railway, Power and Light Company today had accepted the plan of city council for trackless trolley service on three streets here provided the streets are paved by the city and the company's tracks torn up.

M'MATH TELLS RANSOM STORY

Trial of Buck Brothers Nears Climax Tuesday As Father Takes Stand.

BARNSTABLE, Mass., June 20.—A vivid description of how he paid over $60,000 to the kidnapers of his 10-year-old daughter, Peggy, in a dimly-lit boat anchored in Wychmere harbor on the night of May 4 was given from the stand today by Neil C. McMath, father of the abducted child at the trial of Kenneth and Cyril Buck.

McMath told how Cyril Buck, who had been aiding as contact man, had brought a "masked figure" aboard the boat in the dead of the night and how, in the eerie light of the cabin, he had negotiated for the return of his child who then had been missing 60 hours.

The "masked figure," exercising extreme caution, did not talk. Instead he wrote notes to McMath. After considerable dickering McMath produced $70,000, all he had been able to raise. The masked man said $50,000 was to go to the kidnapers, $10,000 to himself because he was only a "contact man" and "$10,000 to Cyril as his 'cut'." Cyril, however, refused to accept the $10,000. The "masked figure" thought Cyril was "a sap," for doing this.

Worry, sorrow and despondency are written plainly on the face of David Lamson, Stanford University publication official, as he sits in court at San Jose, Cal., at the opening of his trial on a charge of slaying his wife, Allene, who was found dead in their campus home.

New High Seen For Mercury

Temperature Here 85 at 9 a. m. and Climbing; Reached 100 Degrees Monday; Dr. Clark Says Added Humidity Helped Relieve Intensity Monday

The temperature at 1:45 today was 98, according to Dr. H. R. Clarke who expected the mercury would go above the 100 mark before the end of the day.

With the mercury ascending every hour, probably enroute to a new high mark for the year, Circleville, Tuesday, prepared for another sweltering day, and the worst of it all, Dr. H. R. Clarke, local weather observer, said that there was no possible relief in store.

Monday marked the second day this spring that the temperature had reached the 100 mark, although three weeks ago when the latter mark was attained, there was a difference in humidity of 40 degrees, Dr. Clarke pointed out.

"The amount of humidity is a great factor in causing sweltering temperatures," Dr. Clarke said.

"Three weeks ago there was an enormous amount of humidity or moisture in the air, probably caused by radiation of the sun or ocean currents. The people suffered extremely from the heat due to this high humidity, but yesterday there was little humidity and I don't believe that the heat was felt as much as it was three weeks ago," the weather observer concluded.

CLIMBING AGAIN

The temperature fell to 62 degrees during the night but at 9 a. m. Tuesday it had begun its steady climb, reaching the 85 mark at this hour. It is expected to pass the 100 mark Tuesday.

The 100 mark was reached Monday about 2 p. m. and continued to hover around the same number until 4 o'clock and after.

In the matter of relief, Dr. Clarke was extremely doubtful but said there was a slight possibility of local showers. "There has been some rain over the Scioto river basin, caused by a slight raising of the river and it is possible that this condition may bring local showers," he concluded.

CLAIM NEGLIGENCE

Boy Struck at Madison-Twp School Last May.

Claiming $10,000 damages as a result of injuries suffered when he was allegedly struck and knocked down by an auto last May, Marvin Smith, aged 5, by Forrest Smith, his father, of Madison-twp, filed a damage suit in common pleas court, Tuesday, against Harley Hines of near Ashville.

The petition prepared by Smith's attorney, James F. Henderson of Columbus, states that the plaintiff was crossing the Groveport-Ashville-rd in front of the Madison school-house on May 12, 1933, when the defendant operating his vehicle in a northerly direction struck and knocked him down. As a result of being struck, the plaintiff petition says Smith suffered a fractured skull, concussion of the brain, his muscles and skin were torn loose and other injuries were sustained. He claims he will have permanent injuries which warrant $10,000 damages.

The petition further asserts that the injuries were caused by the careless and negligent operation of the auto by the defendant as follows: 1—the defendant was not maintaining a look-out for pedestrians; 2—the defendant gave no warning or signal of his approach; 3—the defendant was operating his vehicle in excess of 35 miles per hour, and 4—the defendant was operating his vehicle on the left of the center of the highway.

ASK FORECLOSURE

The Citizens' Bank of Ashville, through its attorney, George W. Morrison, filed an action for money and foreclosure of a mortgage against H. E. and Melva Miller of Columbus, and Earl Reed of near Ashville.

The amount claimed is $1,157.95. Foreclosure of a mortgage on some real estate owned by the defendants is also asked.

THREESTATES CAST VOTE ON REPEAL TODAY

Iowa, One of Pivotal States, Watched by Nation; Both Claim Edge

APPEALS ARE FIRED

New England States Expected to Go Wet

By International News Service
Voters of three important states, Iowa, New Hampshire and Connecticut went to the polls today to cast ballots for or against the repeal of the 18th amendment.

Probably the most important of the trio was Iowa with both wets and dries claiming victory. This is one of the middlewestern pivotal states which are being watched carefully by both national wet and dry. Wets claim margins in both New Hampshire and Connecticut.

DES MOINES, Ia., June 20.—Conceded as a critical factor in the national repeal trend, Iowa voted today on repeal of national prohibition.

APPEALS HEARD

Dries and repealists alike carried on extensive campaigns in advance of the referendum with national prohibition organizations making strenuous efforts to swing the rural and church vote against repeal. All the heavy artillery of the dries took part in eleventh hour appeals.

CONCORD, N. H., June 20.—The Granite state, which adopted a state-wide prohibition law two years before the 18th amendment became a part of the constitution, balloted today for "wet" and "dry" delegates to a state constitutional convention, with predictions freely made that a vote of 2 to 1 for repeal would result.

Until two years ago, New Hampshire was considered "dry," but this spring Governor John G. Winant signed a bill legalizing 3.2 per cent beer passed by the legislature.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 20.—Connecticut voters went to the polls today to register their decision of prohibition repeal. Fourteen years ago this state refused to ratify the 18th amendment.

SEE 5-1 MARGIN

Confident of overwhelming victory which they hoped would be as high as 5 to 1 for repeal, wet leaders continued their efforts today to get out the vote. Long lines of men and women waited outside voting booths eager to cast their ballots when the polls opened.

Of the state's more than 600,000 registered voters, leaders predicted a total vote of from 300,000 to 400,000.

Last November the state voted in referendum 292,787 to 47,951 in favor of memorializing congress for repeal.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—A case which will furnish a test of the constitutionality of the 3.2 per cent beer law in the supreme court is not yet in sight, dry leaders agreed today.

Some congressional experts on the federal beer law maintain it is so drawn that it cannot be tested, but Dr. F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, declared flatly "there will be a case."

Casey, Partner 'Out Of Money'

Frank Casey, local professional, and Jack McLaughlin, his Columbus amateur partner, could do no better than 74 in the pro-amateur tournament at Springfield, Monday. Their score did not get them into the money.

A 39 was counted on the "out" nine and 35 was the score in the final round. Casey and McLaughlin, who were the tournament winners, were the only pair to make the cut. Casey's score was 74 and McLaughlin's was 75. The defending champion team of Tom Noble and Bobby Davis was third with a 68.

DEVAL IN TIE

The three teams in second place were Reggie Myles of Ashland, and Harry Switzer of Cleveland; Jules Blanton, and Max DeVol of Marquette; and Al Marchi and Glen Bishop, holder of the title in 1930.

Only one stroke behind the third place team came three others to tie for fourth with a 69—Bill Thompson and Oliver Transue of Canton; Charles Lorms and Bob Kepler of Columbus, and Herb Christopher and Byron Hunt of Columbus.

Three teams tied with a 70 were Joe Hanney and Charles Yoniz, of Columbus; Gene Marchi and Clyde Mummery of Dayton, and Wilson Crain and Jack Knight of Akron. Jack Edelman and Bob Johnson of Springfield had a 71, as did Bob Shave and Steve Schouler of Cleveland.

BIRDS' STREAK COMES TO END

Weinert Bests Hueser In Free-Hitting Game; Louisville Wins 11-6.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 20.—With the win streak of the association-leading Columbus Red Birds broken by the Kentucky Colonels to the tune of 11 to 6, the two teams today were to meet in the only doubleheader of their series at the Louisville field.

The series got under way with a night game here last night, a game which saw Bud Teachout play the "goat" role. When Ray Blades and Mike Gonzales were ordered out of the game for protesting a ball called on Rosen, Teachout went into left field in Blades' place.

Leadership in the game soon swung from the Birds to the Colonels, when Teachout dropped Rosen's fly and two Louisville runners crossed the plate. Ed Hueser went the whole game for Columbus, allowing ten hits. Phil Weinert did all the mound work for the Colonels, striking out eight men.

Daily Drama

The heroes—Jimmy Dykes, White Sox, and Hal Schumacher, Giants. A triple of Dykes with bases full featured Chicago's victory over Yankees, 4 to 3. Schumacher held Cubs to three hits and scored fifth shutout of year, 3 to 0.

The goat—Earl Averill, Cleveland. Red Sox scored three runs and beat Cleveland 5 to 2 when he failed in attempt to make shoe-string catch of Warstler's line drive with two on base, the blow going for a homer.

Industries Prepare Code for Nation-Wide Recovery

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Basic industrial groups of the United States today were preparing to submit their codes under which they will agree to operate, to Brigadier General Hugh S. Johnson, administrator for industrial recovery.

These codes, they have been advised, must:

- Fix a minimum wage;
- Set maximum hours of work-day to spread employment;
- Prescribe regulations to eliminate all unfair practices.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THE Scotch jokes ain't all gone yet. This one is about Angus Cameron and how he sent a telegram. He says to the girl at the counter, "How many words can I end, and how much will it cost? I want to telegraph my wife in Chicago to stay in the house because I'm going to be a lot of shooting.

"It'll cost seventy-two cents for ten words. The signature costs nothing."

"I kin sign my whole name for nothing?"

"Yes."

The Scotchman from Chicago thought it over a long time, and then he come back with a telegram blank. It had on it:

"Stay-In-After-Dark."

"That'll be seventy-two cents," says the girl. "You could send six more words if you want to for the same money."

"But you don't understand," says Angus. "That's my signature, and it goes for nothing, you said. You see, I'm a Sioux Indian, just playing I'm Scotch. I sign my real Indian name to telegrams, and I couldn't think of anything to say to my wife, so you just send my name for nothing."

have the first public hearing on an application for approval of its new code. The date is June 27, when representatives of two-thirds of the spindles and looms of the country will be heard.

The textile industry's code proposes:

- Minimum wages of $10 weekly for southern mills and $11 weekly for northern mills;
- Maximum of 40 hours labor per week.

This represents an approximate increase of 30 per cent in wages for an important proportion of the textile industry, and a reduction of 20 per cent in weekly working hours.

Apprentices, cleaners, and outside employees would be excepted from the minimum wage and maximum hours provision.

Johnson and his advisers have decided to leave it up to the various industries to take advantage of the provisions of the recovery act, with the government acting as co-ordinator in improving conditions.

A staff of nationally known economists, business, and labor leaders today have their instructions as to the functions of each group.

Actual detail in connection with applications for approval of industrial codes will be handled by deputy administrators, who will assist Johnson by conducting hearings at which each branch of the industry concerned, will be represented.

No deputy administrator will be assigned over any particular industry, or permitted to conduct hearings on the code of any industry in which he might be interested in a business or professional way.

Labor, industrial and consumer advisers will be appointed to counsel each deputy administrator in preparing the code of any particular group. Once agreed upon, each code must pass President Roosevelt's approval, to whom it will be submitted by General Johnson.

Deputy administrators named by Johnson include: W. L. Allen, New York steel expert; Prof. Earl D. Howard, Northwestern university; Arthur D. Whiteside, president Dunn and Bradstreet, Inc.; Major General C. C. Williams, retired, World War ordnance chief; K. M. Simpson, consulting engineer; Nelson Slater, textile magnate.

Other aides of General Johnson include Dudley Cates, Chicago, insurance business, assistant for industry.

NATURAL TREND NO SURPLUS ANSWER

Crop and market trends for 1935 indicate that natural factors alone will not reduce agricultural production in the United States this year enough to dispose of the burdensome surplus of farm products, according to figures received by the department of rural economics at the Ohio State university.

In spite of the fact that the 1933 winter wheat crop is forecast as 124,666,000 bushels smaller than the 1932 crop, it is unlikely that the present wheat surplus will be overcome as a result. The United States wheat carry-over at the beginning of the present marketing year was practically three times its normal size.

The new crop, except in Ohio, is now generally expected to be smaller than last year's, but it probably will be large enough to care for current domestic consumption, especially since the higher price of wheat may discourage its use as feed in the amount that was fed last year.

In the opinion of the economists of the department, a carry-over of at least two and a half times normal is likely to plague the wheat belt in 1934, unless there are material changes, now unexpected, in the export demand for American wheat.

Judging from current trends in production and exports, the surplus of hogs is likely to be greater in the coming season. There are more hogs in the country, and the domestic market is being forced, by decreasing export demand, to consume a greater proportion of the total pork produced in the country.

The 1932 corn crop of nearly three billion bushels was the largest since 1925.

The youths abandoned the car, police said.

MOVIES

AT THE GRAND

It is an axiom in the theatre that when an ex-comedian directs the result will be fine drama.

Why? Because the basis of comedy is tragedy. And Eddie Buzzell, not so long ago ranked among the leading comedians on Broadway, proves no exception to the rule with his latest directorial effort, "Child of Manhattan," a Columbia production which is at the Grand Theatre.

The star of the photoplay is Nancy Carroll; the leading man John Boles, and the balance of the cast includes Charles "Buck" Jones, Tyler Brooke, Jessie Ralph, Warburton Gamble, Betty Kendall, Betty Grable, Luis Alberni and others.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Of its people and made by its people, Hollywood writes its town biography in "What Price Hollywood," which brings the smart vivacity of the glamorous Constance Bennett in her latest RKO Pathe starring production coming to the Cliftona Theatre this Wednesday and Thursday. Miss Bennett is supported to surmount the charm and elegance she displayed in her previous film success, "Lady With a Past," which won a host of new fans for the screen star.

Peters Into Hollywood Life

With a galaxy of celebrities in support, Miss Bennett unfolds the intricacies and intimacies of the inner and more notable circles of the Film Capitol. Lowell Sherman, Neil Hamilton, Gregory Ratoff, Louise Beavers and others aid the star to present an authentic dramatization of Hollywood life. The action traverses the thoroughfare of social life coupled with a delightful tale. Malibu Beach, the Brown Derby Restaurant, glittering Hollywood Boulevard, Agua Caliente, and the princely estates of Beverly Hills partake of the film footage to enhance the story. Moreover, every phase of talking picture making is frankly revealed.

Waddell, Planning to Attend O. E. S. Inspection, Pays Tribute to Gessley

Among the members of the order of the Eastern Star, coming to the annual inspection of Circleville chapter, O. E. S., in the Masonic Temple, Friday night, will be Rev. Doc Waddell, evangelist of the Interdenominational Evangelistic association of the world; supreme chaplain of the Saints and Sinners, an international organization; pastor of the "People's church" at Chillicothe; and past grand patron of Ohio's grand chapter of the Eastern Star. He has been busy here and there delivering his fraternal lectures: "Weavings of Freemasonry," "Story of the Star," "Spiritual Altitudes," "The Present," and "Be Yourself."

Chaplain Waddell will arrive in Circleville, Friday, and be the guest of his old friend, Rudolph Gessley, secretary of the Elks lodge, with whom he tramped on the old John Robinson circus years ago. Says Waddell in his story of "Prominents I Knew in Circus Life," speaking of Mr. Gessley: "Never a more faithful human unit. Trustworthy and honest. Could read people better than Bill Pinkerton. He met them, face to face, thousands as he sold tickets to the big show from the historic old ticket wagon. Think of it! What meagre space in which to do a day's business—thousands of dollars worth—in that little old ticket wagon.

"Yet Circleville's Gessley did it. And, in all his years, never made a mistake in the handling and count of money on the show's LOSS SIDE of the ledger, and he never took in a piece of counterfeit. Say, Dolph Gessley, would see it coming before arriving at the office window, and, quick as lightning he'd shove it back to the person offering it. Marvellous how he tells the counterfeit in monied world! By the sight, and, absolutely by the feeling of it. On the other hand, bank officials, and government experts, use powerful glass, acids, and such, and it may take them sometime to ascertain for sure they have a piece of spurious money. Gessley, immediately, soon as his keen eyes rest upon it, and absolutely beyond the shadow of a shade of doubt, the moment his hand takes hold of it.

"Gessley was one of the world's three lightning ticket sellers. He was specially advertised as such by Uncle John Robinson. P. T. Barnum heralded Ben Lusbie, a Newark, Ohio, boy, who is buried there. And, Adam Forpaugh featured as his lightning ticket seller Dave Watts, of Janesville, Wisconsin, who in his last days was totally blind. The clay of Janesville in Wisconsin clasps his

Reach for a Lucky

—for always Luckies Please!

A man's cigarette?

Well—here's why I enjoy Luckies

Somehow, I have always felt that it takes a really fine cigarette to please a man. And since many of the men whose judgment I value smoke Luckies ... I reach for a Lucky, too. True, I enjoy Luckies' fine tobacco quality and their delicious mildness. But my real reason is perhaps a trifle feminine. Men may not appreciate this as much as a sensitive woman—but I'm particularly grateful to "Toasting" for that comforting assurance of purity. I've talked to many women about this—remember, a cigarette becomes an intimate thing with us, we place it between our lips. And so, perhaps, because I am a woman this is my woman's reason for always saying "Luckies Please!"

because "It's toasted"

For the Man Who Didn't Say: "Is It Hot Enough for You?"

"MARY FAITH"
by Beatrice Burton
COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS
Mary Faith, young and comely fiancée of Kimberley Farrell, handsome blond youth, just out of law school, leaves her position as secretary to the wealthy Mark Nesbit to marry "Kim." Mary Faith receives a note from Kim's mother inviting her to dinner.

CHAPTER III

"Kim, what's the matter? Are you angry with me?" she was beginning when he brought his hand down hard on hers, interrupting her.

"Wait, let me tell you about my mother," he said. "She was awake last night when I got home and I told her that you and I had just about made up our minds to get married on the first—"

"Just about made up our minds?" echoed Mary Faith as he stopped. "Why, Kim, we have made up our minds, haven't we? I thought we settled everything last night."

Surely there had been no if's-and-abouts about their getting married when they had talked it over the night before. Kim had been very clear and definite about their plans then.

They would be married on the first day of October, a Saturday, and leave town in his little roadster for a week's honeymoon "just bummum around the state." Then they would come back to the flat where he and his mother lived and settle down to be Mr. and Mrs. Kimberley Farrell for the rest of their lives.

"Of course, we did settle everything," he said now. "But you asked me what my mother thinks about our getting married, and I'm telling you. She thinks we ought to wait until I'm making more money—enough to give her a flat of her own somewhere. She doesn't want to live with us. She says it'll never work."

In the darkness Mary Faith's face flushed. "She's been saying that for almost four years, Kim," she reminded him. "She knows it will be years before you'll be making enough money to keep up two homes. You're twenty-eight and I'm twenty-four, and we know we care for each other and that we're old enough to marry and settle down. I'm sure we won't mind facing a little poverty together, if we have to. Suppose we do have to pinch pennies? Who cares?"

She bent her head and her lips brushed the sleeve of his coat. "I shall love pinching pennies, I shall be the most stingy wife under the sun—as well as the happiest one," she added.

"You're sure you won't mind having her live with us?" he asked after a minute or two. "I never could stand listening to two women bickering every night when I came home, let me tell you!"

His voice was harsh and his eyes were straight ahead of him on the lamplight road. He took his hand from hers and laid it on the steering wheel.

"Kim, please don't say things like that to me. Haven't I always been nice to you mother?" she asked him. "And you know I won't mind having her living with us. I won't care who lives with us or where we live—so long as you and I are together."

Kim and his mother lived on the ground floor of an old-fashioned apartment in Wilton Street.

Mary Faith always enjoyed her visits there because it was Kim's home; but it was a depressing sort of place.

The living room was crowded with upholstered furniture. All of the chairs had little lace doilies on their backs. A big brown crock filled with pampas grass stood in front of the fireplace. On a shelf above it stood a cupid clock made of silver gilt. The cupid was much too fat, and he smirked.

"Why, Kim, we have made up our minds, haven't we?"

Over the whole flat hung the smell of dusty carpets, coffee and meals cooked in grease long ago.

Mrs. Farrell was sitting beside the window, reading the evening paper, when Mary Faith and Kim walked into the room at fifteen minutes after seven. She glanced up at the cupid and Mary Faith saw that she had been crying.

"I had dinner ready forty-five minutes ago," she said, getting slowly to her feet. "I made a cheese soufflé. It's ruined by this time, but if you don't care I'm sure I don't."

"Would you like to put your things in my room, Mary Faith?"

Mary Faith followed her down the dark narrow hall to her bedroom. She took off her hat and coat and smoothed her hair back from her forehead.

Mrs. Farrell stood watching her for a second or two with her reddened eyes. Then she muttered something about the soufflé and went hurrying out of the room. She bumped against the door as she went. She was the awkward kind of stout woman who is always bumping into doors or dropping dishes.

Mary Faith hurried after her. "Can't I help you with dinner?" she asked. "You know what a treat it is to me to help around a kitchen."

She had always had a mortal longing for a kitchen of her own. A bright new little kitchen, all colored tiles and shiny pans and white dotted curtains with sunshine and wind coming through them.

"You know I learned quite a lot about cooking when I took that course at the Business Woman's Club last winter," she went on, looking round for an apron. "What can I do to help?"

Kim's mother didn't answer her question. A smile flickered in her eyes for an instant. A tight-lipped smile.

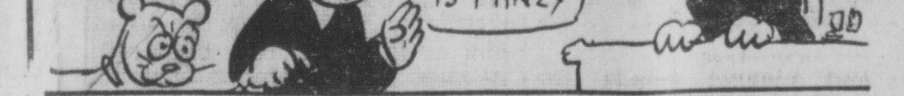

"I guess you didn't learn to keep a soufflé from going to nothing an hour after it was made, did you?" she asked as she pulled a baking dish

Laughing Around the World
With IRVIN S. COBB

Even If This Were A Dream It Would Be Bad
By IRVIN S. COBB

INTO a barroom in Vancouver stalked a stranger of a formidable aspect and, extensively haired-over. On a chain he was dragging a half-grown mountain lion.

The creature was evidently newly-caught. It snarled and snapped and fought with its tether. Then, finding itself inside four walls, it grew desperate and crouched and, with claws and teeth out, leaped for the throat of its owner.

The woolly man struck it in mid-air with a brawny fist, knocked it to the floor and kicked the beast into subjection while the awed barkeeper looked on. Then advancing to the bar he called for and drank in rapid succession three large and brimming glasses of raw whiskey.

As he was downing the third drink, a huge rattlesnake protruded its venomous head from the breast pocket of his coat, with its jaws gaping and its fangs exposed.

"Git back there where you belong," ordered the stranger, dealing his deadly pet a slap with the flat of his hand. Cowed, the monster crawled back into hiding.

"Gimme about three or four more slugs of that red-eye," commanded the newcomer.

"Mister," inquired the barkeeper in a respectful tone of voice, "Where do you come from?"

"Tombstone, Arizona," answered the other.

"Must be a tough country down there," said the barkeeper.

"Sort of. They made me leave there."

"Who made you leave there?"

"Them fellers in Tombstone. They run me and a lot of other cake-eaters out of town—claimed we was sissified."

A Strange Disease of The Blood
Science Still Seeking Cause of Chronic "Erythremia"

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

FOR THE past quarter of a century, those interested in diseases of the blood have been studying the problem of "erythremia." This disease was first described in 1892 by Vaquez, a physician, and is sometimes called "Vaquez's disease."

Erythremia is a chronic disease of the blood. In this disturbance there is a marked increase in the number of red blood cells and in the hemoglobin or coloring matter of the blood. Its cause has never been discovered.

It afflicts men and women, usually in late middle life. Though not hereditary, a number of cases in the same family have been reported. The ailment is slow in its onset and many years may elapse before the victim is aware of its presence.

The disease is first brought to the attention of the sufferer by the peculiar congestion of skin and mucous membranes. The skin assumes a very marked, mottled, brick-red color. This is most apparent on the face, especially the cheeks, nose and ears. The lips are purplish-red or plum colored.

The sufferer complains of fullness in the head, dizziness, irritability, weakness and of nervous disorders. The blood pressure is high and the spleen is greatly enlarged.

The Housewife's Question Box

Question—How long should one bake bread?

Answer—From 45 minutes to one hour is required to bake a medium size loaf of bread (a 1-pound loaf). For white bread the oven should be hot enough to set the dough at once (400-425 degrees F.). Then the temperature must be reduced to 375 degrees F. or the loaf will become too brown before it is thoroughly baked. The bread should be turned at the end of 20 minutes unless the oven bakes very evenly. Loaves shrink from the sides of the pan when done and give a hollow sound when tapped with the finger.

Bread should be turned out of the pans and thoroughly cooled before it is put away.

Thirty Years' War

IN the course of a Commencement Day address at Swarthmore College, Newton D. Baker, secretary of war during the World War, referred to that world engagement as the second "Thirty Year War."

He said he had borrowed the expression from General Tasker H. Bliss, who, when asked during the war how long it would last, said, "Thirty years," and then explained that he included in this period the post war years of bitterness, hatreds and irrationalities engendered by the fighting. These, he believed, would live as long as the generation responsible for the war.

That leaves 11 more years for the world to forget and forgive, for General Bliss was not making a wild guess. He was up on his history of war and no one knows human nature better than a soldier.

If General Bliss erred at all, it was on the near side. Fifteen years have elapsed since the Versailles treaty and Europe is still carrying chips on several shoulders and showing no signs of either forgetting or forgiving.

The European nations talk peace and sign pacts, but always to the accompaniment of war rumors and war threats. No one believes that Germany, France, Italy, Russian and the Balkan States would rather eat than fight, especially at a time when there is not enough to eat.

It has been suggested time and again that had the Versailles treaty been an instrument for peace instead of for vengeance world peace would now be a fact.

Guard Appropriation Cut

HOW many real soldiers there are in the National Guard the country stands to find out during the approaching payless days for the guardsmen. Those who soldier for the love of soldiering and out of concern for the national defense will accept federal economy as just another vicissitude of campaigning. The sort who are in the guard for the money there is in it will not be so anxious to reenlist.

By reducing its allowances to the state guard units the federal government has restored the guard to very nearly its status before its more complete federalization. Guardsmen have not always been paid for drilling and for their days in training camp, and they have paid for their own camp costs at times when it was just as great a hardship as now.

The federal government cut its appropriation to the national guard, but for the purpose of curtailing this factor in the national defense, but out of fiscal necessity. There is no intention, to all outward appearances, to reduce the size of the guard. And yet this is part of the whole question whether the national defenses should be measured by the amount of money or how much the nation needs it for other purposes? Or can the nation safely let down on its real or imaginary enemies are in no better position to attack than the United States is to defend?

And we once thought France needed help to save the frog skin. When the state brings in a "surprise witness," the surprise is that he lived to get there.

You can tell an ethical cold medicine. It's never advertised so you've never heard about it.

That beer is intoxicating seems the unanimous opinion of those who never tasted the nasty stuff.

Bill boards are those things that whiz by while you study the message on the spare tire in front.

Still, it would be strange if congressmen thought up no crazy schemes to save us. Everybody else has.

Stalin has struck a snag. He planned to kill the rich people, and now the fellow with a whole loaf of bread seems rich.

Bob White Says

WINTENVILLE IN THE HILLS
"I want my friends to join me on a little journey to Wintenville," a lovely little place where my old friend, George Brady, enjoys life and lives in a kindy and kingly way. His friends call him "King George."

He lives where the wild flowers grow and where in the early morning the birds raise their voices singing sweetly as if to say "Nature is Divine."

His home is built on a knoll about 20 rods from the country road. Great cedars and maple trees are a protection from the heat of summer and the cold winds of winter. The broad porch across the front and the fan shaped transom over the door lend a Colonial Atmosphere.

Many happy years the Old King and his Queen walked hand in hand among the King George lived among sweet and sacred memories. His one story colonial home was indeed his castle and in it he had many treasures some things his father brought over from the city of Norwich.

Among them one of the most treasured was a beautiful old banjo clock it bore the date of 1715, London. It was brought over and it was much beloved as it was handed down from his grandfather. My old friend had a store of things to say to me on this visit one thing that pleased me greatly, viz. it was the clock and as I had never seen anything like it I valued it greatly and the fact that he thought enough of me to make me its owner, greatly pleased me. True to old English custom when the old clock struck four he rang a little bell that called the maid and he announced that we would have tea which the maid brought in with a plate of sweet little cakes and crackers.

My old friend had many things to talk about, so I gave him the floor. First he said he had been reading about the Garden of Eden and all of its charms. This is his view of it, he said, now Bob "I have come to the conclusion that Eden is repeated. That every new born male is an Adam and every female is an Eve, and after a few short days, weeks, or months, these little people open their eyes in wonder at the beautiful things on

CARD OF THANKS

We also wish to thank Rev. Troutman, the singers and C. E. Hill, for their efficiency which aided us so much. —The Children.

Local Singers Have Important Part In Recital at Chillicothe

Chillicothe had a benefit musical concert, Monday evening, but it remained for Circleville's excellent talent to 'steal the show.' Proceeds of the recital in the Elks hall, attended by a fair-sized crowd of enthusiasts who braved intense heat, went to the Ross-co Welfare society.

Mrs. Dolores Maxwell directed the program which was provided by her pupils, the Chillicothe Choral club of which a number of local singers are members, and the Hillsboro Music Club chorus.

The program lasted two hours and nearly every minute was filled with beautiful music. None of Circleville's singers were presented as soloists until after the middle of the program had been reached, then Franklin Price appeared for his Aria, Una furtiva lagrima (L'Elisit d'Amore) by Donizetti. He was never in better form than Monday evening and was given a splendid hand by the audience.

A feature of the program was presented in the next number when Miss Eleanor Snyder sang her Aria, Du Christ avec ardeur (La Mort de Jeanne d'Arc) by Berlioz. Miss Snyder had previously been heard by a Chillicothe audience and a wave of expectation which swept her listeners and applause as she concluded her presentation. The only words needed to describe her solo are 'It was masterful.'

RETURN FOR DUET

She returned with Mr. Price for the duet Laci d'arem (Don Giovanni) by Mozart. This number, too, was splendidly rendered.

Then Mrs. James P. Moffitt made her appearance to sing two Hebrew songs. Elli, Elli (Invocation), traditional Yiddish melody arranged by Kurt Schindler, and Rachem (Mercy) by Mana Zucca were presented by Mrs. Moffitt whose deep alto voice seemed to reach new depths in both these selections. She sang both Hebrew songs in a recital here recently before persons who heard her in both places were unanimous that her singing on the Chillicothe program was even superior to her fine performance here.

Not only was she afforded loud applause by the audience but many admirers heaped congratulations upon her at the conclusion of the recital.

Another splendid feature of the evening was presented in two quartet numbers by the local Monday Club quartet, Mrs. Clark Will, Mrs. Melvin Yates, Mrs. Ione Reichelderfer and Mrs. Moffitt. The first, Allerseelen (All Soul's

NEWS OF HOMES AND HOME FOLKS

VOL. 4. NO. 25 Published by STEVENSON'S Tuesday, June 20, 1933

One of our Pyrofax Gas users, from our neighboring village of New Holland, dropped in last Friday to tell us that she "gets" about six months' use out of a tank of this gas and that her mother-in-law had just emptied a tank after giving EIGHT MONTHS of fuel service. In street parlance, that's going some! This user, with no other cooking appliance in her home, and with two members in her family, secured cooking fuel for only $1.50 per month. And during this eight months, our user had absolutely no bother other than to turn on the gas and apply a match. And some folks are afraid of the cost of operation!

A very beautiful and useful estate gas range was placed on our floor last week. It's of the table top style—top of the oven being on the same level as the cooking top. The finish on the outside is of a lovely ivory porcelain, trimmed with green on the corners. In our opinion this is the ideal range for the average kitchen. No matter where you place it in relation to windows, there is no shadow of the oven on the cooking top. The oven is fully insulated (keeping the kitchen cool) and has a ThermEstate oven heat control. Drop in and let us tell you about it. Do this before July 1st, as we are expecting an increase in prices on Estates. By the way, this range and Pyrofax gas outfit can be installed in any country home for about the price of a good coal range.

Here is good news for the tired and weary! In spite of the increase in prices in other lines, we're authorized to sell DE LUXE bed-springs for as little as $17.75 (a drop from $21.50) and SLUMBERON mattresses—inner-spring construction—as low as $29.75. This is a drop of $5. If you'd ask us for better bedding than these two articles, we'd be up a stump. Get one of these outfits now and begin to get the "rest of your life."

With wheat ready for harvesting, and hot weather with us, it's some job to prepare the meals on a coal range. No need of it, folks, when a three burner PERFECTION may be had right here for as little as $17.50. It's the oil stove that works quickly and without smoke or odor. And then you'll need a good ice refrigerator. We have one that will take a 100-lb. cake of ice without chipping and we have a very attractive price upon it.

First quality felt-base rugs, 9x12 size, for $5.35! Seems impossible, considering the fact that prices have advanced, but we have them at this price.

There's a family down in Salt creek-twp., that is probably sleeping these mornings, due to a new felt mattress. Prices are advancing on these articles, too. Get in before the increase affects our stock.

LOWERY DENIES MURDER CHARGE; ARRANGES $2,000 BOND, IS FREED

Affidavit Sworn by McCrady Before Mayor Charges Second Degree

CRABLES STILL HELD

Tom Hill's Funeral Wednesday at 3 p. m.

William Lowery, 50, was released from the county jail, Monday evening, after furnishing $2,000 bond in Mayor E. T. Hedges' court. Lowery pleaded not guilty to murder in the second degree, Monday afternoon, and was bound to the grand jury.

He is charged with the death of Thomas H. Hill, 65, who died of a shotgun wound in his chest Sunday afternoon after a family fight with members of the Lowery family. Mr. Hill and Lloyd and Miranda Crable are the principals. The latter two are held in the county jail as material witnesses.

The Lowerys charge Mrs. Crable, Hill's daughter, who was released from the Columbus workhouse late last week, caused the quarrel which ended fatally.

SWORN BY MCCRADY

The affidavit charging Lowery with murder in the second degree was filed by Officer William McCrady. It said "Lowery did unlawfully, purposely and maliciously kill Thomas Hill."

Lowery, when questioned by Prosecutor Ray W. Davis, pleaded self defense claiming if he hadn't shot Hill the man would have shot him. A .22 caliber H. & R. pistol was taken from the dead man's hand after the fracas in the yard of Hill's southeast residence.

Prosecutor Davis said after the charge was filed, Monday, "It is necessary that a charge be filed against Mr. Lowery to hold him. It will be up to the grand jury to hear testimony of all witnesses and decide on what charge he shall be tried."

Lowery's bond was signed by Alonzo Starkey, Logan-st., and Mrs. Rosa Thomas, Lowery's sister.

FUNERAL WEDNESDAY

In the meantime funeral arrangements have been completed for Mr. Hill. Rev. E. S. Toensmeier, of the First Presbyterian church, will officiate at the Albaugh funeral home Wednesday at 3 p. m. with interment to follow in Forest cemetery.

COUNTY NOT HURT BY HEALTH SLASH

Dr. Beale Says State Subsidy Cut Expected; Expenses Here Are Low.

Action of the state senate finance committee in cutting $300,000 from the state board of health budget will not affect the continued operation of the Pickaway-co board of health, Dr. C. C. Beale, county health officer, said Tuesday. "We have been anticipating this cut for sometime and have been eliminating unnecessary expenses as much as possible," Dr. Beale said. "This is a state subsidy and has been cut little by little for several years. We do not believe that we will be affected by the cut, inasmuch as we have been operating at very low expense," he concluded.

It was feared that the $300,000 slice from the budget would impair the operation of a number of local health departments. The Director of Health H. G. Southard strenuously objected to the cut, warning of the abandonment of a number of health districts which have played a great part in preserving "the good health" of the state.

Forest Army Boys Write From California 'Wilds'

From a wild section of California came two communications from Pickaway-co members of the forest army, Tuesday. Mrs. William Caudill received a letter from her son and a card was received by friends of Kenneth Henn.

The county youths are located at California Hot Springs, near Proctorville, between two mountains the names of neither being given in the communications.

The "army" passed through Kentucky, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and Nevada before entering California. Four days and nights were spent on the train.

Cutting tent poles has been the most difficult task the outfit has had. The camp is located about 3,000 feet above sea-level.

The Caudill boy's letter says a sergeant in the outfit killed a small rattlesnake on the sidewalk in the village. Friends, and relatives who wish to write to the youths should address their mail, California Hot Springs, California, C. C. C. Company 587.

HAMM TO CO-OPERATE

Notorious Abductor Identified By His Victim.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 20.—William Hamm Jr., millionaire brewer, will personally lead the search for the hide-out in the Minnesota lake regions where he was held captive for nearly four days by kidnapers.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 20.—Authorities had the active cooperation today of William Hamm Jr., 39, millionaire brewer, as search was spread throughout the northwest for his kidnapers.

The hunt was speeded up by a reward of $30,000 offered by St. Paul business men for apprehension of the five or six abductors who released Hamm early yesterday after payment of a ransom which had been scaled down from an original figure of $100,000.

Somewhat refreshed after his four day ordeal, Hamm was back at his office at the Theodore Hamm Brewing company, of which he is president.

"I will give any information I have," Hamm told Prosecutor M. F. Kinkadee, in charge of the search.

IDENTIFIES SANKEY

The wealthy brewer said he was not permitted to see all of his kidnapers, but he was able to identify pictures of Verne Sankey as one who resembled a leader of the gang. Sankey is under indictment for the kidnaping of young Haskell Bohn here and the recent abduction of Charles Boettcher II in Denver.

A taxicab driver likewise identified pictures of Sankey as the man who engaged him to deliver the first ransom note to an associate of Hamm.

Search for the house where the millionaire was held captive four days spread through northern Minnesota. Although hooded and blindfolded, Hamm said he thought it was a farmhouse located in the northern part of the state.

Hamm, the son of one of St. Paul's wealthiest families, was released at Wyoming, 45 miles from here, early yesterday and authorities returned him to his family residence here.

FORMER AMERICAN LEGION CHIEF DIES

SHREVEPORT, La., June 20.—O. L. Bodenhamer, former national commander of the American Legion, was dead today from burns suffered in a gas explosion on his oil lease near Henderson, Texas.

Death came in a hospital here last night, despite emergency treatment in the "heat bath" and intravenous injections.

The clothing of Bodenhamer was burned from his body.

OHIO TO GET WORKS FUNDS

Gen. Henderson Feels Certain State To Be Granted Large Slice of Cash.

COLUMBUS, June 20.—Ohio's chances of obtaining a $400,000, 000 slice of the $3,000,000,000 federal public works fund are "extremely favorable," Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson, chairman of the state relief commission, declared today on his return from Washington where he conferred with government officials.

Col. Donald H. Sawyer, President Roosevelt's temporary administrator of public works, told him that Ohio is the first state that has submitted a complete program, and is therefore "first in line" for consideration, Henderson said.

"Although no definite promises have been made," Henderson stated, "it would appear that Ohio will be well taken care of when distribution of the public works money is started."

Sawyer advised Henderson and Ohio associates to "comb" the $400,000,000 program of all projects except those which the state relief commission is willing to recommend. This will be done at once, Henderson said.

Fred Rowe, chairman of the Ohio work relief committee, who was instrumental in drafting the Ohio program, will return to Ohio tomorrow after consultations with federal authorities. The "comb-ing" task will be placed in his hands.

BILLION, 8 MILLION NOW IN TREASURY

This balance, reminder of war time will be employed in the public works, agriculture and relief activities now getting under way.

This sum was accumulated in the sale of more than a billion dollars worth of securities, and from usual income sources such as taxes and customs receipts.

So far in June over $104,281,000 in income taxes and $71,483,000 in miscellaneous internal revenue have been collected. Miscellaneous receipts which are expected to run more than $100,000,000 this month are nearly three times as great as last year.

There were 80 miles in the course between Nantucket and Provincetown, Mr. Roosevelt expected to make the harbor there by nightfall, given favorable weather.

HEALTH BOARD AND COLUMBUS FACE CONTEST

Southard Warns City Action Must Be Taken in Disposal Plant Issue

LETTER IS DEFIED

Matter May Go to State's Attorney-General

COLUMBUS, June 20.—Refusing to swerve from its original plan on disposal of the city's sewage disposal problem, the Columbus council today had openly defied a warning from Dr. H. G. Southard, director of the state health department.

In an unexpected letter to council, read shortly before its meeting last night, Dr. Southard warned that he would turn the matter over to Attorney-General John W. Bricker for prosecution because of needless delay.

WARNING UNHEEDED

Headless of the warning, council voted immediately afterward to adhere to its plan of permitting a private contractor to build and operate the plant unless bids received on the job cannot be accepted because of excessive cost.

Dr. Southard urged the city to adopt Mayor Henry Worley's plan of assessing a sewer rental tax approximating $2.63 for every home in the city, and that the city construct its own plant at a cost of approximately $3,300,000.

COLUMBUS, June 20.—The Columbus Railway, Power and Light Company today had accepted the plan of city council for trackless trolley service on three streets here provided the streets are paved by the city and the company's tracks torn up.

NO FARE INCREASE

The company would make no increase in fares, under the new type of service, council was told by Ben W. Marr, president of the railway company.

MCMATH TELLS RANSOM STORY

Trial of Buck Brothers Nears Climax Tuesday As Father Takes Stand.

BARNSTABLE, Mass., June 20.—A vivid description of how he paid over $60,000 to the kidnapers of his 10-year-old daughter, Peggy, in a dimly-lit boat anchored in Weymouth harbor on the night of May 4 was given from the stand today by Neil C. McMath, father of the abducted child at the trial of Kenneth and Cyril Buck.

McMath told how Cyril Buck, who had been aiding as contact man, had brought a "masked figure" aboard the boat in the dead of the night and how, in the eerie light of the cabin, he had negotiated for the return of his child who then had been missing 60 hours.

The "masked figure," exercising extreme caution, did not talk. Instead he wrote notes to McMath. After considerable dicker-ing McMath produced $70,000, all he had been able to raise. The masked man said $50,000 was to go to the kidnapers, $10,000 to himself because he was only a "contact man" and $10,000 to Cyril as his "cut". Cyril, however, refused to accept the $10,000. The "masked figure" thought Cyril was "a sap," for doing this.

ATTEMPT TO SAVE OHIO'S SALES TAX

COLUMBUS, June 20.—A secret caucus of House Democrats, for the purpose of forestalling an avalanche of amendments designed to kill Governor George White's sales tax bill, was called today by Democratic Floor Leader Keith Lawrence, of Cleveland.

The caucus was also called, Lawrence admitted because an advance poll of the house membership, taken yesterday, indicated that administration forces "may not have enough votes" to pass the sales tax, although they have been highly confident in the past.

$1 WHEAT SEEN

NEW YORK, June 20.—"Dollar wheat" by the end of the year was forecast today by U. S. Senator Arthur Capper, R., of Kansas as a result of farm legislation sponsored by the Roosevelt administration and the production curtailment plans worked out by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

On a visit to the offices of his publishing firm here, the Kansas senator, long a leader in the fight for remedial farm legislation, declared he looked forward to increasingly better times.

Worry, sorrow and despondency are written plainly on the face of David Lamson, Stanford University publication official, as he sits in court at San Jose, Cal., at the opening of his trial on a charge of slaying his wife, Alice, who was found dead in their campus home.

New High Seen For Mercury

Temperature Here 85 at 9 a. m. and Climbing; Reached 100 Degrees Monday; Dr. Clark Says Added Humidity Helped Relieve Intensity Monday

The temperature at 1:45 today was 98, according to Dr. H. K. Clarke who expected the mercury would go above the 100 mark before the end of the day.

With the mercury ascending every hour, probably enroute to a new high mark for the year, Circleville, Tuesday, prepared for another sweltering day, and the worst of it all, Dr. H. K. Clarke, local weather observer, said that there was no possible relief in store.

Monday marked the second day this spring that the temperature had reached the 100 mark, although three weeks ago when the latter mark was attained, there was a difference in humidity of 40 degrees, Dr. Clarke pointed out.

"The amount of humidity is a great factor in causing sweltering temperatures," Dr. Clarke said. "Three weeks ago there was an enormous amount of humidity or moisture in the air, probably caused by radiation of the sun or ocean currents. The people suffered extremely from the heat due to this high humidity, but yesterday there was little humidity and I don't believe that the heat was felt as much as it was three weeks ago," the weather observer concluded.

CLIMBING AGAIN

The temperature fell to 62 degrees during the night but at 9 a. m. Tuesday it had begun its steady climb, reaching the 85 mark at this hour. It is expected to pass the 100 mark Tuesday.

The 100 mark was reached Monday about 2 p. m. and continued to hover around the same number until 4 o'clock and after.

In the matter of relief, Dr. Clarke was extremely doubtful but said there was a slight possibility of local showers. "There has been some rain over the Scioto river basin, caused by a slight raising of the river and it is possible that this condition may bring local showers," he concluded.

CLAIM NEGLIGENCE

Boy Struck at Madison-Twp School Last May.

Claiming $10,000 damages as a result of injuries suffered when he was allegedly struck and knocked down by an auto last May, Marvin Smith, aged 5, by Forrest Smith, his father, of Madison-twp, filed a damage suit in common pleas court, Tuesday, against Harley Hines of near Ashville.

The petition prepared by Smith's attorney, James F. Henderson of Columbus, states that the plaintiff was crossing the Groveport-Ashville-rd in front of the Madison schoolhouse on May 12, 1933, when the defendant operating his vehicle in a northerly direction struck and knocked him down. As a result of being struck, the plaintiff suffered a fractured skull, concussion of the brain, his muscles and skin were torn loose and other injuries were sustained. He claims he will have permanent injuries which warrant $10,000 damages.

The petition further asserts that the injuries were caused by the careless and negligent operation of the auto by the defendant as follows: 1—the defendant was not maintaining a look-out for pedestrians; 2—the defendant gave no warning or signal of his approach; 3—the defendant was operating his vehicle in excess of 25 miles per hour, and 4—the defendant was operating his vehicle on the left of the center of the highway.

DISCORD SEEN IN U. S. RANKS

Couzens Demands Unified Action To Stop Criticism of British Press.

By International News Service. A flare-up in the ranks of the American delegation occurred today as the world economic conference struggled on with its controversies.

Senator James Couzens of Michigan, aroused by criticism in the British press, heatedly demanded the American delegation take some definite, unified stand, whether national or international, to end the charges the representatives are divided on matters of policy.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull was received in audience by King George, discussing progress of the conference for half an hour.

The monetary sub-committee of the conference approved the stabilization and gold coverage reduction clauses in Senator Keo Pittman's silver resolution, but side-tracked his proposal that silver be utilized to a certain degree as a world currency cover.

Great Britain announced willingness to reduce excessive tariffs through bi-lateral agreements. Information obtained by International News Service indicated American recognition of Soviet Russia may be materially advanced before the American delegation to the conference starts for home.

BLAST ENDANGERS 9 IN ZANESVILLE

ZANESVILLE, June 20.—The lives of nine persons were endangered here today when an explosion of undetermined origin ripped away the front of the White Star Restaurant, owned by John Lugnich.

The blast caused damages of about $2,000, it was estimated. Nine persons, occupying an apartment above the restaurant, were asleep at the time of the explosion. None was injured.

Investigation was started immediately by police and city officials to determine whether the blast was caused by a bomb or gas.

THREESTATES CAST VOTE ON REPEAL TODAY

Iowa, One of Pivotal States, Watched by Nation; Both Claim Edge

APPEALS ARE FIRED

New England States Expected to Go Wet

By International News Service

Voters of three important states, Iowa, New Hampshire and Connecticut went to the polls today to cast ballots for or against repeal of the 18th amendment.

Probably the most important of the trio was Iowa with both wet and drys claiming victory. This is one of the critical states which are being carefully watched by both national and state politicians.

DES MOINES, Ia., June 20.—Conceded as a critical factor in the national repeal trend, Iowa today on repeal of national prohibition.

APPEALS HEARD

Drys and repealists alike carried on extensive campaigns in advance of the referendum, with national prohibition organizations making strenuous efforts to swing the rural and church vote against repeal. All the heavy artillery of the drys took part in eleven-day appeals.

CONCORD, N. H., June 20.—The Granite state, which adopted a state-wide prohibition law 20 years before the 18th amendment became a part of the constitution, balloted today for "wet" and "dry" delegates to a state constitutional convention, with predictions fairly made that a vote of 2 to 1 for repeal would result.

Until two years ago, New Hampshire was considered "dry." This spring Governor John G. Sununu signed a bill legalizing liquor which was passed by the legislature.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 20.—Connecticut voters went to the polls today to register their decision on prohibition repeal. Fourteen years ago this state refused to ratify the 18th amendment.

SEE 5-1 MARGIN

Confident of overwhelming victory which they hoped would be high as 5 to 1 for repeal, wet leaders continued their efforts today to get out the vote. Long lines of men and women waited outside voting booths to cast their ballots when the polls opened.

Of the state's more than 600,000 registered voters, leaders predicted a total vote of from 300,000 to 400,000.

Last November the state voted in referendum 292,787 to 47,961 in favor of memorializing congress for repeal.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—A case which will furnish a test of the constitutionality of the 32 percent beer law in the supreme court is not yet in sight, dry leaders agreed today.

Some congressional experts on the federal beer law maintain it is so drawn that it cannot be tested, but Dr. F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, declared flatly "there will be a case."

BEER LAW ATTACKED

The 32 per cent beer law has been attacked in the courts in several states. White attorneys for dry organizations have not made a detailed study of these cases.

They have seen none as yet on which they would be willing to go into the nation's highest tribunal.

The stumbling block for dry forces is that the department of justice controls prosecutions in federal courts, and since it is proceeding on the basis that the law is valid, district attorneys are not expected to furnish a test case.

MARCHERS REST IN FAIRGROUNDS

COLUMBUS, June 20.—Seventy sun-baked, footsore and hungry members of the Cleveland-Sandusky contingent of the "People's army" cooled their heels at the Ohio fair grounds here today while awaiting the arrival of marchers from other sections of the state.

As soon as the marchers have united their full strength, they plan to stage a final dramatic parade to the statehouse where their leaders hope to gain admission to the legislative halls and present "relief demands."

Industries Prepare Code for Nation-Wide Recovery

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Basic industrial groups of the United States today were preparing to submit their codes under which they will agree to operate, to Brigadier General Hugh S. Johnson, administrator for industrial recovery.

These codes, they have been advised, must:

- Set a minimum wage;
- Set maximum hours of work-day to spread employment;
- Prescribe regulations to eliminate all unfair practices.

The cotton textile industry will have the first public hearing on an application for approval of its new code. The date is June 27, when representatives of two-thirds of the spindles and looms of the country will be heard.

The textile industry's code proposals:

- Minimum wages of $10 weekly for southern mills and $11 weekly for northern mills;
- Maximum of 40 hours labor per week.

This represents an approximate increase of 30 per cent in wages for an important proportion of the textile industry, and a reduction of 20 per cent in weekly working hours.

Apprentices, cleaners, and outside employees would be excepted from the minimum wage and maximum hours provision.

Johnson and his advisers have decided to leave it up to the various industries to take advantage of the provisions of the recovery act, with the government acting as co-ordinator in improving conditions.

A staff of nationally known economists, business, and labor leaders today have their instructions as to the functions of each group.

Actual detail in connection with applications for approval of industrial codes will be handled by deputy administrators, who will assist Johnson by conducting hearings at which each branch of the industry concerned, will be represented.

No deputy administrator will be assigned over any particular industry, or permitted to conduct hearings on the code of any industry in which he might be interested in a business or professional way.

Labor, industrial and consumer advisers will be appointed to counsel each deputy administrator in preparing the code of any particular group. Once agreed upon, each code must pass President Roosevelt's approval, to whom it will be submitted by General Johnson.

Deputy administrators named by Johnson include: W. L. Allen, New York steel expert; Prof. Earl D. Howard, Northwestern University; Arthur D. Whiteside, president Dunn and Bradstreet, Inc.; Major General C. C. Williams, retired, World War ordnance chief; K. M. Simpson, consulting engineer; Nelson Slater, textile magnate.

Other aides of General Johnson include Dudley Cates, Chicago, insurance business, assistant for industry.

NATURAL TREND NO SURPLUS ANSWER

Crop and market trends for 1933 indicate that natural factors alone will not reduce agricultural production in the United States this year enough to dispose of the burdensome surplus of farm products, according to figures received by the department of rural economics at the Ohio State university.

In spite of the fact that the 1933 winter wheat crop is forecast as 124,666,000 bushels smaller than the 1932 crop, it is unlikely that the present wheat surplus will be overcome as a result. The United States wheat carry-over at the beginning of the present marketing year was practically three times its normal size.

The new crop, except in Ohio, is now generally expected to be smaller than last year's, but it probably will be large enough to care for current domestic consumption, especially since the higher price of wheat may discourage its use as feed in the amount that was fed last year.

In the opinion of the economists of the department, a carry-over of at least two and a half times normal is likely to plague the wheat belt in 1934, unless there are material changes, now unexpected, in the export demand for American wheat.

Judging from current trends in production and exports, the surplus of hogs is likely to be greater in the coming season. There are more hogs in the country, and the domestic market is being forced, by decreasing export demand, to consume a greater proportion of the total pork produced in the country.

The 1932 corn crop of nearly three billion bushels was the largest since 1925.

SEVERAL HURT

Several persons suffered minor injuries, Sunday night, when the Packard owned by F. S. Jackson of Washington C. H., and driven by his daughter, collided with the Ford driven by George Riggins. The accident happened on the Adelphi-pk.

Four girls in the Jackson car were slightly cut with passengers in the Riggins car requiring a physician's treatment. Misses Elmira Vandevort, Rosemary Neuding and Catherine Neff were in the Riggins auto.

Both cars were taken to the Leach Motor Co. for repairs.

Several Ashville young men riding in the car belonging to Floyd Anderson of that village, were uninjured, Sunday, when the car turned over in Lancaster.

The youths abandoned the car, police said.

MOVIE

AT THE GRAND

It is an action in the theatre that when an ex-comedian directs the result, will be fine drama.

Why? Because the basis of comedy is tragedy. And Eddie Buzzell, not so long ago ranked among the leading comedians on Broadway, proves no exception to the rule with his latest directorial effort, "Child of Manhattan," a Columbia production which is at the Grand Theatre.

The star of the photoplay is Nancy Carroll; the leading man John Boles, and the balance of the cast includes Charles "Buck" Jones, Tyler Brooke, Jessie Ralph, Warburton Gamble, Betty Kendall, Betty Grable, Luis Alberni and others.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Of its people and made by its people, Hollywood writes its own biography in "What Price Hollywood," which brings the smart vivacity of the glamorous Constance Bennett in her latest RKO Pathe starring production coming to the Cliftona Theatre this Wednesday and Thursday. Miss Bennett is supported to surmount the charm and elegance she displayed in her previous film success, "Lady With A Past," which won a host of new fans for the screen star.

Peers Into Hollywood Life

With a galaxy of celebrities in support, Miss Bennett unfolds the intricacies and intimacies of the inner and more notable circles of the Film Capitol. Lowell Sherman, Neil Hamilton, Gregory Ratoff, Louise Beavers and others aid the star to present an authentic scrutinization of Hollywood life. The action traverses the thoroughfare of social life coupled with a delightful tale. Malibu Beach, the Brown Derby Restaurant, glittering Hollywood Boulevard, Agua Caliente, a Chinese Theatre premiere and the princely estates of Beverly Hills partake of the film footage to enhance the story. Moreover, every phase of talking picture making is frankly revealed.

Waddell, Planning to Attend O. E. S. Inspection, Pays Tribute to Gessley

Among the members of the order of the Eastern Star, coming to the annual inspection of Circleville Temple, Friday night, will be Rev. Doc Waddell, evangelist of the Interdenominational Evangelistic association of the world; supreme chaplain of the Saints and Sinners, an international organization; pastor of the "Peoples' church" at Chillicothe; and past grand patron of Ohio's grand chapter of the Eastern Star. He has been busy here and there delivering his fraternal lectures: "Weavings of Freemasonry," "Story of the Star," "Spiritual Altitudes," "The Present," and "Be Yourself."

Chaplain Waddell will arrive in Circleville, Friday, and be the guest of his old friend, Rudolph Gessley, secretary of the Elks lodge, with whom he trouped on the old John Robinson circus years ago. Says Waddell in his story of "Promenades I Knew in Circus Life," speaking of Mr. Gessley: "Never a more faithful human unit, trustworthy and honest. Could read people better than Bill Pinkerton. He met them, face to face, thousands as he sold tickets to the big show from the historic old ticket wagon. Think of it! What meagre space in which to do a day's business—thousands of dollars worth—in that little old ticket wagon.

"Yet Circleville's Gessley did it. And, in all his years, never made a mistake in the handling and count of money on the show's LOSS SIDE of the ledger, and he never took in a piece of counterfeit. Say, Dolph Gessley would see it coming before arriving at the office window, and, quick as lightning he'd shove it back to the person offering it. Marvelous how he tells the counterfeit in monied world! By the sight, and, absolutely by the feeling of it. On the other hand, bank officials, and government experts, use powerful glass, acids, and such, and it may take them sometime to ascertain for sure they have a piece of spurious money. Gessley, immediately, soon as his keen eyes rest upon it, and absolutely beyond the shadow of a shade of doubt, the moment his hand takes hold of it.

"Gessley was one of the world's three lightning ticket sellers. He was specially advertised as such by Uncle John Robinson, P. T. Barnum heralded Ben Lusbie, a Newark, Ohio, boy, who is buried there. And, Adam Forpaugh featured as his lightning ticket seller Dave Watts, of Janesville, Wisconsin, who in his last days was totally blind. The clasp of Janesville in Wisconsin clasps his

THE Scotch jokes ain't all gone yet. This one is about Angus Cameron and how he sent a telegram. He says to the girl at the counter, "How many words can I and, how much will it cost? I want to telegraph my wife in Chicago to stay in the house because I'm going to be a lot of shooting.

"It'll cost seventy-two cents for ten words. The signature costs nothing."

"I kin sign my whole name for nothing."

"Yes."

The Scotchman from Chicago thought it over a long time, and then he come back with a telegraph blank. It had on it:

"Stay-in-After-Dark."

"That'll be seventy-two cents," says the girl. "You could send six more words if you want to for the same money."

"But you don't understand," says Angus. "That's my signature, and it goes for nothing, you said. You see, I'm a Sioux Indian, just playing I'm Scotch. I sign my real Indian name to telegrams, and I couldn't think of anything to say to my wife, so you just send my name for nothing."

Reach for a Lucky

Luckies
Please!

A man's cigarette? Well—here's why I enjoy Luckies

Somehow, I have always felt that it takes a really fine cigarette to please a man. And since many of the men whose judgment I value smoke Luckies...I reach for a Lucky, too. True, I enjoy Luckies' fine tobacco quality and their delicious mildness. But my real reason is perhaps a trifle feminine. Men may not appreciate this as much as a sensitive woman—but I'm particularly grateful to "Toasting" for that comforting assurance of purity. I've talked to many women about this—remember, a cigarette becomes an intimate thing with us, we place it between our lips. And so, perhaps, because I am a woman this is my woman's reason for always saying "Luckies Please!"

because "It's toasted"

For the Man Who Didn't Say: "Is It Hot Enough for You?"

"MARY FAITH"

by Beatrice Burton

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

Mary Faith, young and comely fiancée of Kimberley Farrell, handsome blond youth, just out of law school, leaves her position as secretary to the wealthy Mark Nesbit to marry "Kim." Mary Faith receives a note from Kim's mother inviting her to dinner.

CHAPTER III

"Kim, what's the matter? Are you angry with me?" she was beginning when he brought his hand down hard on hers, interrupting her. "Wait, let me tell you about my mother," he said. "She was awake last night when I got home and I told her that you and I had just about made up our minds to get married on the first—"

"Just about made up our minds?" echoed Mary Faith as he stopped. "Why, Kim, we have made up our minds, haven't we? I thought we settled everything last night."

Surely there had been no ifs-and-ans about their getting married when they had talked it over the night before. Kim had been very clear and definite about their plans then.

They would be married on the first day of October, a Saturday, and leave town in his little roadster for a week's honeymoon "just bumbling around the state." Then they would come back to the flat where he and his mother lived and settle down to be Mr. and Mrs. Kimberley Farrell for the rest of their lives.

"Of course, we did settle everything," he said now. "But you asked me what my mother thinks about our getting married, and I'm telling you. She thinks we ought to wait until I'm making more money—enough to give her a flat of her own somewhere. She doesn't want to live with us. She says it'll never work."

In the darkness Mary Faith's face flushed. "She's been saying that for almost four years, Kim," she reminded him. "She knows it will be years before you'll be making enough money to keep up two homes. You're twenty-eight and I'm twenty-four, and we know we care for each other and that we're old enough to marry and settle down. I'm sure we won't mind facing a little poverty together, if we have to. Suppose we do have to pinch pennies? Who cares?"

She bent her head and her lips brushed the sleeve of his coat. "I shall have pinching pennies, I shall be the most stingy wife under the sun—as well as the happiest one," she added.

"You're sure you won't mind having her live with us?" he asked after a minute or two. "I never could stand listening to two women bickering every night when I came home, let me tell you!"

His voice was harsh and his eyes were straight ahead of him on the lamp-lit road. He took his hand from hers and laid it on the steering wheel.

"Kim, please don't say things like that to me. Haven't I always been nice to your mother?" she asked him. "And you know I won't mind having her living with us. I won't care who lives with us or where we live—so long as you and I are together."

Kim and his mother lived on the ground floor of an old-fashioned apartment in Wilton Street.

Mary Faith always enjoyed her visits there because it was Kim's home; but it was a depressing sort of place.

"Why, Kim, we have made up our minds, haven't we?"

Over the whole flat hung the smell of dusty carpets, coffee and meals cooked in grease long ago.

Mrs. Farrell was sitting beside the window, reading the evening paper, when Mary Faith and Kim walked into the room at fifteen minutes after seven. She glanced up at the couple and Mary Faith saw that she had been crying.

"I had dinner ready forty-five minutes ago," she said, getting slowly to her feet. "I made a cheese soufflé. It's ruined by this time, but if you don't care I'm sure I don't."

"Would you like to put your things in my room, Mary Faith?"

Mary Faith followed her down the dark narrow hall to her bedroom. She took off her hat and coat and smoothed her hair back from her forehead.

Mrs. Farrell stood watching her for a second or two with her red-rimmed eyes. Then she muttered something about the soufflé and went hurrying out of the room. She bumped against the door as she went. She was the awkward kind of stout woman who is always bumping into doors or dropping dishes.

Mary Faith hurried after her.

"Can't I help you with dinner?" she asked. "You know what a treat it is to me to help around a kitchen."

She had always had a mortal longing for a kitchen of her own. A bright new little kitchen, all colored tiles and shiny pans and white dotted curtains with sun-time and wind coming through them.

"You know I learned quite a lot about cooking when I took that course at the Business Woman's Club last winter," she went on, looking round for an apocryphal "What can I do to help?"

Kim's mother didn't answer her question. A smile flickered in her plump face for an instant. A tight-lipped smile.

"I guess you didn't learn to keep a soufflé from going to nothing an hour after it was made, did you?" she asked as she pulled a baking dish

Even If This Were A Dream It Would Be Bad

INTO a barroom in Vancouver stalked a stranger of a formidable aspect and extensively haired-over. On a chain he was dragging a half-grown mountain lion.

The creature was evidently newly-caught. It snarled and snapped and fought with its tether. Then, finding itself inside four walls, it grew desperate and crouched and, with claws and teeth out, leaped for the throat of its owner.

The woolly man struck it in mid-air with a brawny fist, knocked it to the floor and kicked the beast into subjection while the awed bar-keeper looked on. Then advancing to the bar he called for and drank in rapid succession three large and brimming glasses of raw whiskey.

As he was downing the third drink, a huge rattlesnake protruded its venomous head from the breast pocket of his coat, with its jaws gaping and its fangs exposed.

"Git back there where you belong," ordered the stranger, dealing his deadly pet a slap with the flat of his hand. Cowed, the monster crawled back into hiding.

"Gimme about three or four more slugs of that red-eye," commanded the newcomer.

"Mister," inquired the barkeeper in a respectful tone of voice, "Where do you come from?"

"Tombstone, Arizona," answered the other.

"Must be a tough country down there," said the barkeeper.

"Sort of. They made me leave there."

"Who made you leave there?"

"Them fellers in Tombstone. They run me and a lot of other cake-eaters out of town—claimed we was sissified."

A Strange Disease of The Blood

Science Still Seeking Cause of Chronic "Erythremia"

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

FOR THE past quarter of a century, those interested in diseases of the blood have been studying the problem of "erythremia." This disease was first described in 1892 by Vaquez, a physician, and is sometimes called "Vaquez's disease."

Erythremia is a chronic disease of the blood. In this disturbance there is a marked increase in the number of red blood cells and in the hemoglobin or coloring matter of the blood. Its cause has never been discovered.

It afflicts men and women, usually in late middle life. Though not hereditary, a number of cases in the same family have been reported. The ailment is slow in its onset and many years may elapse before the victim is aware of its presence.

The disease is first brought to the attention of the sufferer by the peculiar congestion of skin and mucous membranes. The skin assumes a very marked, mottled, brick-red color. This is most apparent on the face, especially the cheeks, nose and ears. The lips are purplish-red or plum colored.

The sufferer complains of fullness in the head, dizziness, irritability, weakness and of nervous disorders. The blood pressure is high and the spleen is greatly enlarged.

The Housewife's Question Box

Question—How long should one bake bread?

Answer—From 45 minutes to one hour is required to bake a medium size loaf of bread (a one-pound loaf). For white bread the oven should be hot enough to set the dough at once (400-425 degrees F.). Then the temperature must be reduced to 375 degrees F. or the loaf will become too brown before it is thoroughly baked. The bread should be turned at the end of 20 minutes unless the oven bakes very evenly. Loaves shrink from the sides of the pan when done and give a hollow sound when tapped with the finger.

Bread should be turned out of the pans and thoroughly cooled before it is put away.

Bob White Says

WINTENVILLE IN THE HILLS

"I want my friends to join me on a little journey to Wintenville, a lovely little place where my old friend, George Brady, enjoys life and lives in a kindly and kindly way. His friends call him 'King George.'"

He lives where the wild flowers grow, and where in the early morning the birds raise their voices singing sweetly as if to say "Nature is Divine."

His home is built on a knoll about 20 rods from the country road. Great cedars and maple trees are a protection from the heat of summer and the cold winds of winter. The broad porch across the front and the fan shaped transom over the door lend a Colonial Atmosphere.

Many happy years the Old King and his Queen walked hand in hand among these surroundings, but now old King George lived among sweet and sacred memories. His one story colonial home was indeed his castle and in it he had many treasures some things his father brought over from the city of Norwich.

Among them one of the most treasured was a beautiful old banjo clock. It bore the date of 1715, London. It was brought over and it was much beloved as it was handed down from his grandfather. My old friend had a store of things to say to me on this visit one thing that pleased me greatly. Viz. it was his intention to will me the old clock and as I had never seen anything like it I valued it greatly and the fact that he thought enough of me to make me its owner, greatly pleased me. True to old English custom when the old clock struck four he rang a little bell that called the maid and he announced that we would have tea which the maid brought in with a plate of sweet little cakes and crackers.

My old friend had many things to talk about, so I gave him the floor. First he said he has been reading about the Garden of Eden and all of its charms. This is his view of it, he said, now Bob "I have come to the conclusion that Eden is repeated. That every new born male is an Adam and every female is an Eve, and after a few short days, weeks, or months, these little people open their eyes in wonder at the beautiful things on every hand, fruit, flowers, the wild things like rabbits, deer and birds are afraid of man. The crowing of the mother's voice is much like an angel's voice that Adam of history heard.

John Muir, the Naturalist of California, when walking through the flower covered valleys and inhaling their fragrance and the added sweetness of the orange groves, he cast his eyes to the far off snow capped mountains, he then was sure that, if these had ever been an Eden, it never could have been more beautiful. I have been a copy of a little magazine "The Country Home." We find an article by Harry Emerson Fosdick on page 12, February, 1932, in which he says: "Talk is not enough, real things must be done, people of the big churches, and the little ones as well." He says that in old London in a dingy little meeting house there flashed out the absolute doctrine of "Religious Liberty." Right before me a copy of a little magazine "The Country Home." We find an article by Harry Emerson Fosdick on page 12, February, 1932, in which he says: "Talk is not enough, real things must be done, people of the big churches, and the little ones as well." He says that in old London in a dingy little meeting house

Now with all this fragrance of June. All the beauties we see about

Sincerely Bob White

Local Singers Have Important Part In Recital at Chillicothe

Chillicothe had a benefit musical concert, Monday evening, but it remained for Chillicothe's excellent talent to 'steal the show.' Proceeds of the recital in the Elks hall, attended by a fair-sized crowd of enthusiasts who braved intense heat, went to the Ross-co Welfare society.

Mrs. Dolores Maxwell directed the program which was provided by her pupils, the Chillicothe choral club of which a number of local singers are members, and the Hillsboro Music Club chorus.

The program lasted two hours and nearly every minute was filled with beautiful music. None of Chillicothe's singers were presented as soloists until after the middle of the program had been reached, then Franklin Price appeared for his Aria, Una Furtiva (L'Elis, d'Amore) by Donizetti. He was never in better form than Monday evening, and was given a splendid hand by the audience.

A feature of the program was presented in the next number when Miss Eleanor Snyder sang her Aria, Du Christ avec ardeur (La Mort de Jeanne d'Arc) by Bemberg. Miss Snyder had previously been heard by a Chillicothe audience and a wave of expectation which swept her listeners when she appeared developed into loud applause as she concluded her presentation. The only words needed to describe her solo are 'It was masterful.'

RETURN FOR DUET

She returned with Mr. Price for the duet Laci d'arm (Don Giovanni) by Mozart. This number, too, was splendidly rendered.

Then Mrs. James P. Moffitt made her appearance to sing two Hebrew songs, Eli, Eli (Invocation), traditional Yiddish melody arranged by Kurt Schindler, and Rache (Mercy) by Mana Zucca. Both were presented by Mrs. Moffitt whose deep alto voice seemed to reach new depths in both these selections. She sang both Hebrew songs in a recital here recently but persons who heard her in both places were unanimous that her singing on the Chillicothe program was even superior to her fine performance here.

Not only was she afforded loud applause, but many admirers heaped congratulations upon her at the conclusion of the recital.

Another splendid feature of the evening was presented in two quartet numbers by the local Monday Club quartet, Mrs. Clark Will, Mrs. Melvin Yates, Mrs. Ione Reichelderfer and Mrs. Moffitt. The first, Allerseelen (All Soul's

Burns, local singers, took part in the choruses.

Chillicothe's soloists were all excellent, Thomas C. Giles, a basso, Mrs. Besse Stevenson, soprano, William E. Tetrick, tenor, Robert W. Dunkle, baritone, and Mrs. John C. Wilkins, soprano, all had parts in the program, with a trio from Faust by Gounod, sung by Mrs. Stevenson, George P. Thompson and Mr. Dunkle proved a highlight. It compared favorably with the program's climax, the sextet from Lucia, sung by Mrs. Stevenson, Mrs. Maxwell, Mr. Thompson, B. B. Evans, Mr. Dunkle and Mr. Giles.

NEWS OF HOMES AND HOME FOLKS

VOL. 4. NO. 25 Published by STEVENSON'S Tuesday, June 20, 1933

One of our Pyrofax Gas users, from our neighboring village of New Holland, dropped in last Friday to tell us that she 'gets' about six months' use out of a tank of this gas and that her mother-in-law had just emptied a tank after giving EIGHT MONTHS of fuel service. In street parlance, that's going some! This user, with no other cooking appliance in her home, and with two members in her family, secured cooking fuel for only $1.50 per month. And during this eight months, our user had absolutely no bother other than to turn on the gas and apply a match. And some folks are afraid of the cost of operation!

A very beautiful and useful estate gas range was placed on our floor last week. It's of the table top style—top of the oven being on the same level as the cooking top. The finish on the outside is of a lovely ivory porcelain, trimmed with green on the corners. In our opinion this is the ideal range for the average kitchen. No matter where you place it in relation to windows, there is no shadow of the oven on the cooking top. The oven is fully insulated (keeping the kitchen cool) and has a Thermastate oven heat control. Drop in and let us tell you about it. Do this before July 1st, as we are expecting an increase in prices on Estates. By the way, this range and Pyrofax gas outfit can be installed in any country home for about the price of a good coal range.

Here is good news for the tired and weary! In spite of the increase in prices in other lines, we're authorized to sell DE LUXE bed-springs for as little as $17.75 (a drop from $21.50) and SLUMBERON mattresses—inner-spring construction—as low as $29.75. This is a drop of $5. If you'd ask us for better bedding than these two articles, we'd be up a stump. Get one of these outfits now and begin to get the 'rest of your life.'

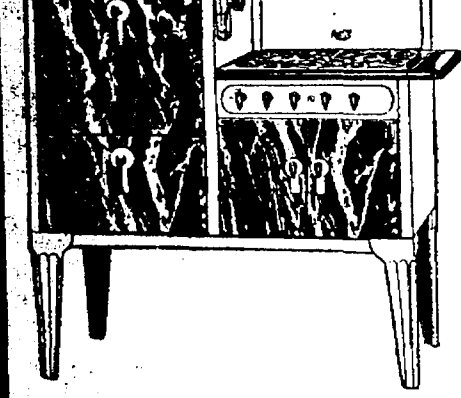

With wheat ready for harvesting, and hot weather with us, it's some job to prepare the meals on a coal range. No need of it, folks, when a three burner PERFECT-TION may be had right here for as little as $17.50. It's the oil stove that works quickly and without smoke or odor. And then you'll need a good ice refrigerator. We have one that will take a 100-lb. cake of ice without chipping and we have a very attractive price upon it.

First quality felt-base rugs, 9x12 size, for $5.35! Seems impossible, considering the fact that prices have advanced, but we have them at this price.

There's a family down in Salt creek-twp., that is probably not sleeping these mornings, due to a new felt mattress. Prices are advancing on these articles, too. Get in before the increase affects our stock.
